DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The preliminary amendment dated 11/24/03 has made the claims unclear because it has removed all reference characters making difficult to understand if applicant is talking about the same resistor and triode or if there is more than one resistor and one triode. Furthermore, the structural interconnection of system elements is also unclear, for example if we used the reference characters which were removed from the claim, it is unclear how the collector of triode Q1 is connected to resistor R3 and the negative terminal of the power supply, how the resistor R2 is connected to the receptor and the collector when based on the drawings R2 is connected between the base and the emitter of triode Q1, and how resistor R4 is connected between the transmitter and base of the second triode. Applicant needs to rewrite claim 1 to clarify the structural interconnection of the circuit elements, if reference characters are needed to clarify the subject matter of the claim, applicant is reminded to enclose said reference characters within parentheses. Additionally, the reference characters used in claims 2-4 must be enclosed within parentheses

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claim 1 would be allowable if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action.
4. Claims 2-4 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
5. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: As the invention is best understood, the prior art made of record does not disclose a fan speed control circuit comprising a first resistor and a diode connected in series between the positive and negative power supply terminals, a thermal resistor connected to the diode and to the base of a first triode, wherein a second resistor is connected between the base and collector of the first triode, and the emitter of said first triode is connected to the negative pole of the power supply and its collector is connected to a third resistor which is also connected to the base of a second triode, a fourth resistor is connected between the emitter and collector of the second triode to send speed signals to a fan activation IC.
